Library Using New Computer System

by Melinda Campbell

The Chadwick R-I School is participating in an information sharing network called ORION. ORION stands for Ozark Regional Information Online Network. It is being sponsored by the Springfield Green County Library. The main service is to improve and expand access to community information, and to gain access to world wide information through an electronic network.

A new Packard Bell computer and printer has been purchased for this network and will be housed in the school library.

This is a great opportunity for Chadwick faculty and students to be able to gain access to all the available information.

Library Sponsors Weekly Trivia Question

by Melinda Campbell

The Chadwick School Library is sponsoring a weekly trivia question for Junior High and High School students. The question is part of the weekly student announcement. The student must find and record their answer in the library. A name is then drawn on Thursday at noon. The winner receives a special reward from Principal, Mr. Beasley.

1994 Missouri Youth Art Month Capitol Exhibit

March is YOUTH ART MONTH. To Celebrate, Missouri Art Teachers belonging to Missouri Art Educators Association sent four pieces of student art works to be displayed in the State Capitol in Jefferson City, Missouri.

Fourth graders Heather Ewing, William Garrison, Casey Lewis, and Ashley Peirce were the students whose art work was selected to be displayed in the Capitol. Their creations included "American Gothic" reproductions.

The Capitol Exhibit will be in the 3rd floor rotunda of the Capitol building beginning Saturday February 26 through Friday, March 25, 1994.

There is an Art Exhibit called Living in the Ozarks: A Childs View held in the Edwards Art Gallery at the Ralph Foster museum at the College of the Ozark which opens April 18. The following students art work will be on display: Second Graders John Workman, Brittany Derby, Jennifer DeWitt, Eric Siepker, Tim Bostic, Randi Fletcher, Sarah Campbell, Sixth Graders Adam Germain, Nancy DeWitt, Dianira Villarreal, Amanda Loveland, Christy Herd, Sabrina Middleton, Gary Mitchell, and Dale Fisher.

Art Club

The Chadwick Art Club was privileged to have Bob McFate as a guest speaker during club meeting day in February.

Mr. McFate showed some basic techniques to Air Brushing, such as the fine line that is used in about every motion. He also told us how he started out painting T-Shirts on a sidewalk in Florida with his brother.

Everyone really enjoyed his work and all the techniques that he demonstrated.

What were you going to do during spring break?

by Lisa Herd

March 28 - April 1! What were you planning to do during these days. Ask someone at Chadwick School! You probably won't hear any of these students talking about swimming, fishing, and family vacations.

Because of the 10 snow days, Chadwick will not have a Spring Break and school won't be out until May 25.

Even though we won't have a Spring Break students were asked what they planned to do on Spring Break.

Tina Beshirs said she would have gone to Florida with her friends.

Regina Denny wanted to go to Daytona Beach, Florida.

Elisha Jones would have had some friends down to visit over her break.

Travis Smith said he wanted to go to Colorado to snow ski.

Curtis Anderson wanted to go the lake to camp out and fish.

Josh Gilbert planned on going to Garrison to pick up Joey Sartin and take him out to find him a date for the Prom.

Joey Sartin says he would have gone fishing and gone out on the town.

Christal Gilbert wanted to go to the lake and spend a couple of days out on the boat.

Tammy Payne said she would have liked the break so she would have time to work on her tan.

Mrs. Horton said she would have helped Josh. She was also going to count the days until school is out.

Mrs. Snider-Gearing said she would have liked to camp, fish, and relax while enjoying the spring.

Whatever your plans were don't forget them, just postpone them until May 25.

This is one reason for the cancellation of Spring Break. Between 10 and 15 inches of snow fell in March and cancelled most local schools.

Fifth and Sixth Visit Fantastic Caverns

by Dusty Guerin

Fantastic Caverns was fun. The 5th and 6th graders learned about the little cave animals. When they get full grown they are white. They are blind. The little animals are crayfish, salamanders, and fish. Our guide showed us a crayfish and a salamander. He also showed us how the people had light. If you touch a stalagmite it will stop growing. They turned out all the lights at one point. You could not see your own hands in front of your face. That's how dark it is for the little animals. They showed us a film of a man checking water from a cave to see if it was polluted.

Faculty vs. Seniors

by Shawn Hollon

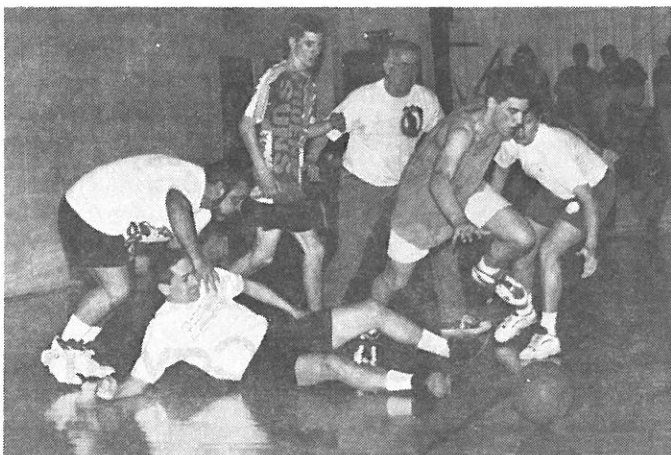

The PTA sponsored a Seniors VS Faculty basketball game Friday, March 4, 1994.

Players on the senior team included Terry Mitchell, Reuben Parker, Tonya Rozell, Regina Denney, and Tina Beshirs.

Players on the faculty team included Steve Long, Ronald Wagner, Terry Beasley, Terry Jester, Arleigh Long, Christy Bevel, Mike Keller, and Lisa Taylor.

The faculty team had lots of support with faculty cheerleaders Vicki Goin, Pam Porter, Tammy Payne, Louella Rains, and Kim Potter.

The final score for the game was Senior 70 - Faculty 52.

How Much Does Prom Really Cost?

by Tamara Thurman

High school guys and girls look forward to prom all year. It's a time to hang out with friends, dance and have fun. But when that moment finally arrives how much money is going to be spent to pay for that special evening.

Girls must deal with the hectic shopping and decision making of finding the perfect dress that fits and looks great. That perfect dress can cost anywhere from $60 - $300, just for the dress. There are many places to look for a dress: The Closet, Vanity, Jean Nicole, and Merry-Go-Round are just a few of the many places. After the decision on the dress has been made next comes the shoes. Shoes can cost anywhere from $20 - $45 depending on the style of the shoe and whether they are dyed to match the dress. Now the hard decisions are over, but everything is not finished yet. Decisions on accessories: Hair style, gloves, jewelry, and etc, must be made, which may cost another $50 - $60. Now the wardrobe is perfect, but don't forget your dates "boutonniere", which is another $5 - $10.

For guys it's a little easier. They have to rent their tux and shoes. The guys have to decide on the color of tux and what color to get their tie and cummerbund or vest to match their date's dress. Tuxes can cost anywhere from $50 - $100. Carl's and Coles are good places to rent a tux. Once they have their tux they also need the corsage for their date which may cost anywhere from $5 - $10.

Couples have to decide on whether they will eat at prom or elsewhere. This will cost $20 - $30.

For a couple to go to prom it can cost somewhere between $85 - $360 for the girl and $75 - 140 for the guys. Prom is definitely very expensive, but it's worth it in the end!

Prom 1994

by Lisa Herd

The Junior Class has been working hard this year to raise money for the Jr./Sr. Prom. The class has sold magazines, sold concessions at the ballgames, and held a tournament for the sixth grade girls.

The 1994 Prom will be held at The University Plaza on April 23, 1994. The Dark Room will be there at 6:00 to take pictures and at 7:30 the meal will be served. The dance will take place after the meal. Music, lights, and fog will be provided by Dennis Myers. The theme this year will be "Miss You In A Heartbeat" by Def Leopard. The colors will be Gold and Black. We hope the night will go well and everyone has a good time.

MBEA Contest

The MBEA - Missouri Business Education Association Contest was held March 17 at SMSU.

Christal Gilbert, Kevin Jackson, and Shawn Hollon were entered in the Accounting I competition.

Justin House, Robert Guerin, and Rintha Goin entered Production Typing. These students were given 15 minutes to type a series of letters.

Shawn Guerin, Tiffany Peirce, and Amber Burkhart were entered into Typing I Speed Category. These students were given two, 5-minute timings and were graded on speed and accuracy.

During the awards ceremony, Christal Gilbert was awarded 5th place in Accounting I. The first place score was 68 and Christal's score was 66. A tie breaker was given that placed Christal in 5th position.

MBEA CONTEST

Typing: Tiffany Peirce, Rintha Goin, Amber Burkhart, Justin House, Shawn Guerin and Robert Guerin.

Accounting: Christal Gilbert, Kevin Jackson, and Shawn Hollon.

Christal earned fifth place in Accounting with a score of 66/68.

FBLA Contest

FBLA Contest was held on March 2 and March 6.

On March 2 Justin House entered Typing I competition. This was held at OTC - Ozarks Technical College. Justin had to type a series of letters in one hour. He was judged on speed and accuracy.

On March 16 Christal Gilbert and Shawn Hollon entered Accounting I competition and Tessa Nalley and Tyler Walker entered Poster Competition. The second part of the FBLA Contest was held at SMSU. Christal and Shawn took an objective test covering the fundamentals of accounting, while Tessa and Tyler were asked to draw a poster with the theme "Team Up With FBLA."

During the Awards Ceremony Christal Gilbert was awarded 5th place in Accounting. She also received an award for Outstanding Business Student in FBLA.

The "Real" Chadwick Carnival

written by Amanda Garrison edited by Yulianna Fernandez

In the spring of 1993 when the fourth grade was still in third grade, they were the first ones to see the cardinal. At the window it was trying to get in by pecking on the window. The first time I saw the cardinal was in November. I was working and the cardinal started pecking on the window.

The cardinal is red and has a yellow beak. He tries to break into the classroom everyday.

The teacher took pictures of the Chadwick cardinal and so did Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Goin passed around the pictures.

The cardinal doesn't have visitors very often. I think the cardinal only had visitors one time. The visitors were two more cardinals.

I think it's neat that the third grade has our school mascot outside the window.

written by Dandy Braden edited by Lori Johnson

Outside the third grade window is the "real" Chadwick Cardinal! The cardinal is a female, there is a male who visits us sometimes too. They came in the spring of 1993.

They peck on the window sometimes. In the winter when it snowed, the cardinals left. Last week the female came back. The male came too. There is a tree outside our window and that is where they sit.

Mrs. Goin would send somebody to get Mrs. Smith and when she would start to take the picture it would fly away. It did that every time.

One day the cardinal came and Mrs. Goin sent a person to get Mrs. Smith and when she came she finally got some pictures.

Then Mrs. Goin took some pictures they didn't turn out very well. I hope Mrs. Smith's turn out better.

written by Drew Boone edited by Jerry Powell

There is a cardinal that is hitting the third grade window. We saw the cardinal in the spring of 1993. She hits the window with her beak. It is a female. She also has another visitor. He is a male. They are pretty together. The male does not stay long. The female drives us crazy because she hits the window. When we worked last week we saw her a lot hitting the window.

We have some pictures of it. It lives in a tree outside the window. We are lucky to have the Chadwick Cardinal. We colored pictures of the cardinal. She is pretty and the male is even prettier. The female has a red beak. The male is all red. Cardinals are in the family of the finch too.

DARE Program

by Melinda Campbell

This year the new Dare officer for the sixth grade was Officer Brent Forgey. Officer Lenny Frank explained that the Dare Program had grown so much in Christian County that a new officer was hired to help teach in the schools. Officer Brent Forgey was selected as the new Dare officer for Chadwick School. Officer Forgey started teaching for the first time this year.

The program teaches students about drugs and how to say No to them. Officer Forgey teaches the students what the drugs look like, how to avoid drug abuse situations, and positive self awareness.

Students were treated to things like meeting Meranda the drug dog, looking at firearms, and roleplaying different situations.

The Dare Officer becomes involved with the student's personal problems, goals, and dreams. Students meet the officer on their "home turf" and even enjoy the game of basketball.

Officer Forgey says he enjoys teaching Dare and getting to know the students. The student's opinion was pretty much the same. The overall statement repeated was "All right Officer Forgey is here". Mrs. Potter says she enjoys having the officer teach the students, the only drawback is when they do the Dare Cheer really loud!

White River Valley Essay Contest

Congratulations to Christal Gilbert!! Based on her essay, "What does the future hold for rural electric cooperatives?," Christal was selected as a finalist for White River Valley Electric Cooperative's Youth Tour Essay Contest.

The final judging will be held Saturday, April 9, at McGuffey's 248 in Branson.

Christal will be judged on knowledge and relevance to the topic, oral presentation of the essay, and the results of a written test.

Theodora Horton is the teacher that works with the junior class on this activity.

Don't Use These Excuses!!

DON'T BE GUILTY OF USING THESE EXCUSES WHEN IT COMES TO USING DRUGS OR ALCHOL.

DUMB EXCUSE #1

"IT'S JUST A WINE COOLER..."

"Just a wine cooler!" Mike repeated. "That's some dumb excuse. Did you know that one wine cooler or one can of beer has as much alcohol as a full shot glass of whiskey?" "I didn't."

"Your body can't handle a powerful drug like alcohol. It slows your coordination, and changes the way you see things. You can lose control and make some pretty bad decisions."

"Kids shouldn't drink any alcohol, and if they drink too much too fast, they can end up in the hospital. Even die. Especially if they get in a car with a person who drinks and drives. Alcohol affects each of us differently. I just kept quiet."

"Maybe that's why every state has laws to prevent teenage drinking," Mike stated. "Listen. Alcohol is a drug. People who can't stop are addicted. And kids like you and me can get addicted much faster than adults. So why start?"

He turned to open the door of his car, then looked back at me and smiled. "I never did. There's no reason to."

DUMB EXCUSE #2

"IT'S NOT BAD FOR YOU. IT'S ONLY POT."

"Marijuana is bad for you," Lisa snapped. "I read that the pot plant is a real chemical factory. The smoke of one marijuana cigarette can harm the lungs as much as smoking 16 tobacco cigarettes."

"I heard that THC was the worst chemical," I said.

Lisa looked pleased that I knew that much. "That's Delta-9-tetrahydrocannabinol, called THC for short," she said, "It stays in your body for weeks, even from just one joint. And as long as it's in there, it changes your ability to think clearly, remember, listen and speak. It makes you feel dull and flat. No question about what it can do to your schoolwork."

"Whoever said smoking pot isn't bad for you must have smoked a little too much of it," I said.

DUMB EXCUSE #3

"LOTS OF PEOPLE SMOKE, SO WHAT?"

"So what?" Bobby shouted. "Ever wonder why so many grownups are trying to quit?" I looked away.

"Eight out of ten kids who try one half a pack of cigarettes will get hooked for years or even their whole life. They smoke or chew tobacco to look grown up. They don't believe anything bad will ever happen to them."

"Right," I whispered.

"I really don't have to tell you, do I?" he said. "Cigarette smoking causes cancer and heart disease. They proved it a long time ago. But some kids are smoking anyway, and a lot of them are already harming their lungs."

"And then there are the ones who think they're smart. They chew tobacco, or take snuff. So instead of lung problems, they get cancer of the mouth and other diseases of the gums, teeth and mouth. Pretty smart, huh?"

DUMB EXCUSE #4

"COCAINE AND CRACK ARE IN, AND YOU CAN ALWAYS KICK THE HABIT..."

"You're right about cocaine and crack being in," Tom said. "But not about kicking the habit. Very few ever recover from it."

"What do you mean, Tommy?"

"Just what I said." He punched his finger into my chest. "Cocaine is powerful and addictive. You crave it more than any other drug. When you use cocaine, after a short time you come down and crash. Keep using it and your crashes get worse. You feel weak, headachy and tired. So you gotta do something to get up again and feel good. What do you do? You do more cocaine."

"Once I had gotten him started, he kept on talking about it."

"And crack. That's just cocaine smoked in a pipe. But if a drug pusher wanted to invent the perfect formula to hook people in just one dose, he couldn't do a better job than crack."

"And the stuff you buy on the street is cut with all kinds of cheaper drugs. Its about as dirty a habit as drinking sewer water."

"Face it, some people who use crack or cocaine can die suddenly when their heart or lungs stop working."

"So people who do it because they think it's in don't know what they're in for," I said.

He nodded. "You said it, I didn't."

DUMB EXCUSE #5

"I'LL LOOK BAD IF I DON'T, AND BESIDES, I'M ONLY TRYING IT."

"You won't look bad if you know how to say "no" and if you stand up for what you believe in. You'll look good."

"And as for "just trying it", you don't need to try getting hit by a car to find out it's no fun, do you?" Manuel looked down at me from the top of the steps.

"How do you say no?" I asked.

"First thing, make up your mind to ignore any ideas to do something illegal or dangerous. It's your life and your body."

"Next come up with a different idea. Change the subject. Make a joke out of it. Or act shocked-like you can't believe anyone would even suggest doing whatever it is you don't want to do."

"You don't have to act like you think you're better than they are. Just try to lead them away from it. And if they won't follow you, just go your own way."

Manuel had seen it all, and he knew what he was talking about.

"Sometimes you need to talk out things that are bothering you. Do it. Don't turn to drugs. Talk to your parents or a good friend or a teacher you like and trust. They can help."

"Drugs can't help anybody. They don't make problems go away. They ruin your health, change your feelings and put you in dangerous situations. So why start? Don't even try them."

GUIDELINES FOR PARENTS/PROFESSIONALS

1. Increase your awareness of the role drug use plays in your own life. Become familiar with how your personal values and attitudes on this subject impact your judgement of the drug-using behavior of other people.

2. Keep in mind that we live in a drug-conscious society and that most people use a variety of mood-altering drugs throughout their lifetime for social and medical purposes.

3. Know as much as you can about different kinds of drugs or where to obtain this information before your children ask.

4. Communicate openly and honestly with your children about drug use rather than moralizing or lecturing about the dangers of drugs. Try to create a caring and sharing atmosphere within your home.

5. Remember that it is never too early to do drug education with your children and never too late to become educated yourself.

6. When establishing rules about drug use, be sure and explain to your children how your personal values, attitudes and experiences with drugs form the basis of your position on this subject.

1. If you discover your child is currently using or has used drugs, don't bother asking he/she WHY he/she did it. The reason is always because they wanted to feel good or better. This is the universal motive behind everyone's drug use.

2. If your children break the rules you set concerning drug use, be sure the consequences of their actions are understood before they act. These consequences should be unnegotiable. It's better to have no stated consequences than ones you set but fail to carry out.

3. Do not stand between your children and the natural consequences of their drug using behavior.

4. Reactions resulting from your own panic, fear or anger will only inhibit communication between you and your child. Take a walk, then talk.

5. Try to maintain a perspective on the total life situation of your child, not only their drug-using behaviors. This is the best barometer for the indication of the problem.
