I, Alissa, will Shelby the ability to not have clinical armpits; Kelsey one more prayer at the river; the squad a million more back roads; Forrest some soul; Mrs. Bowers another sculpture; and lastly, my fellow seniors a bright and successful future.

I, Susannah, will Bridget my quiet voice in choir; my fellow seniors, the ability to be less weird; my parents the right to cry at my graduation; Emily those random songs; Jessie those swapped lunches; and Chadwick my legacy that will last forever.

I, Brandon, will Forrest the Daugherty charm; may the force be with you. Kelsey the will to stop tanning. Clay my study habits. Willie one more unicorn. The Wolf Pack a great and eventful summer.

I, Makenzie, will Luke the ability to focus on school and actually get his homework done; Lydia enough confidence to stand up for herself without threatening to punch someone; Hailey strength to make it through two more years of high school without me; my parents the patience to deal with Luke and Lydia through school as well as they have me; and my fellow classmates of 2015 the best of luck in everything they do.

I, Kailyn, will the Cheetah Girls another win in the talent show; Taylor and Kenzie another awkward Snapchat session; Hailey more gossip sessions with my mom; Kelsey another game of rummy; Alissa another creek day in February; my basketball girls continued success; my little bubbly Hayden, from your favorite big sis, more embarrassing kisses in front of your friends; my parents and Landon, the strength to get through the day when I'm gone to college.

I, Hailey, will my family my love for putting up with me. Jacob the ability to stay out of trouble and live down the name Brother Bear. Kailyn many more sleepovers and late nights putting your clothes in a tub so we can sleep. Kenzie one more night of castle and homemade nachos. Taylor one more bowl of cereal in my shoes. The girls basketball team the ability to love each other and the game. The junior high teams the ability to stick together so I can watch them in the Final Four someday. Gavin, Jacob, Evan, Garrett, and Hannah the ability to gut out cross country the rest of school. And to everyone I couldn't include because I'm limited on space, my apologies.

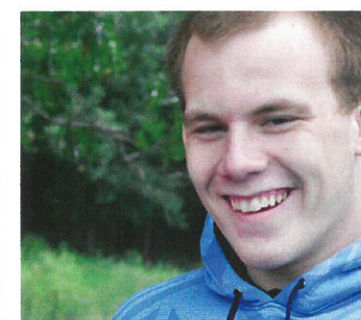

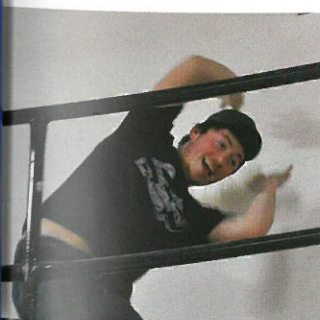

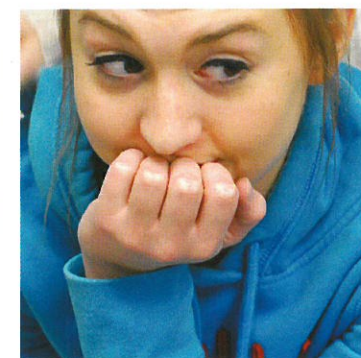

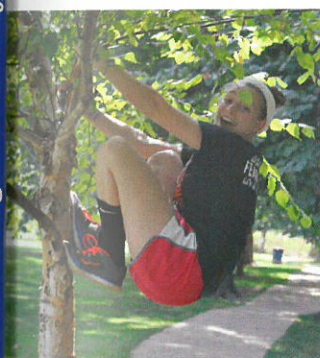

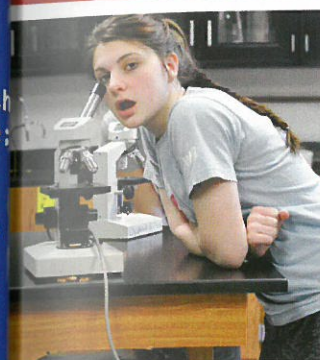

I, Taylor, will Kelsey my lovely list-making skills, my patience with children, and another night of jamming out; Alissa another day picking onions out of the yard; Kenzie one more trip to Kay's without a front axle; Susannah one more endless laugh about absolutely nothing; Kailyn another sleepover filled with many adventures; Mak another talk about boys all night; Abby a Harry Potter marathon; Hailey an endless supply of baby wipes; Janson the ability to put up with me in the mornings; and lastly, I will all my sisters and the rest of my family my love forever.

I, Kenzie, will Kailyn and Hailey one more game of castle, wrestling, and tiger; Makenzie one more Ginger and Dixie concert; Taylor one more pet turtle for our turtle family; Kelsey one more night at Matt's; Alissa another night spitting paper wads at Makenzie; Abby one more time braiding my hair in class; Emily the ability to get along with Makenzie; my family one more game of Clue; Kenyon another night singing to each other; and Hunter one more pair of Rock Revivals.

I, Emily, will TJ one more night of playing guitars together; Jessi another trip to the nail salon; my science class one more round of Apples to Apples; Trenton one more night full of random Snapchats; Kayla another night of watching random movies with a ton of candy; Abby one more American Horror Story marathon; my class the best of luck in whatever they do; and my family all the love in the world and the best future possible.
